Articles:

"Candidates for ASUU Jobs Named": A list of nominees for the various ASUU positions is detailed. Procedures for petitioning for further nominations, due April 18, are included. Rules for eligibility to vote in the April 19 and 26 elections are outlined, with the specification that a slip certifying registration from the registrar's office will not be permitted, as it was in the past.

"Orchesis Prepares for Annual Dance Production": The national honorary dance association will perform its 11th annual dance presentation in Kingsbury Hall on April 19. Group president, Maurine Pratt, and faculty sponsor, Mrs. J Arthus Knudson, planned and arranged for the preparation. Many of the university departments collaborated on this depiction. The dances will range in mood from joyous to serious.

"Carlston Chosen Group Sponsor"

"Walk' Debut Features Plaza Dance": The committee for friendlier relations (Glen Cassity, Becky Smoot, Mary Jane Carter, Eleanor Parker, George Marinackus, Betty Sherwood, and Harold Horsley) planned a dance to be held on the Park steps, April 12, after the opening ceremonies for "Hello Walk." The purpose is to promote mutual interest and friendliness among freshmen and other classes. An event of this sort already existed, but no notice of it was taken. With this revival, the committee is loudspeaker music to the event and putting up signs as reminders.

"Press Club Holds Important Meeting Tonight": The campus yearbook staff, led by Editor Grant Mann, sponsors the fourth press club business meeting of the year on April 11. Nominations and selection of president, vice president, secretary, and treasurer will be conducted by Hal Harmon, retiring president of the club. Panel space in the '41 Utonian will be decided at this meeting. A scavenger hunt is scheduled along with other community games. Thirty-five cents will cover light refreshments in the Union building dining room.

"Medic Test to be Given"

"Honest! We Love the Humbug and 'He-Man' Dansie, Also": Freshmen of the Chronicle seek the truth of campus humor magazine, the Humbug. The publication is 99.64% pure and continues in forwarding the high standard of previous editions. Editor Robert Rees (he-man) Dansie used great discretion in combining beauty and efficiency in this edition. Plans for the coming issue have not been disclosed, though research is being conducted by the staff.

"Collegeans Opposed to 'Ghosting', Survey Discloses": Austin, Texas – A study from the Student Opinion Surveys of America asked a sampling of collegiates across the nation “What is your opinion of the practice of students paying ghost writers to prepare themes and term papers for them?” The results are as follows: strongly opposed, 54%; mildly opposed, 21%; indifferent, 10%; mildly in favor, 8%; strongly in favor, 7%.

"Noted Verse-Writer Wins Applause with Poems, Tales": Poet Robert Lee Frost spoke at Kingsbury Hall as the last of the '39-'40 masterminds and artists speaker series. Frost's wit won applause from the audience in attendance for the lecture entitled “The Poet’s Outlook on Life.” He confessed that he “never dared be radical when young for fear it would make him conservative when old” and stressed the importance of metaphors in effective conversation. Frost read a selection of short poems, including “The Woodchuck,” “Fire and Ice,” and “The Road Not Taken.”

"Campus Knights Set Date for Goat Show": “Pages” of campus male pep organization, Intercollegiate Knights, will paraded at the Park building on April 17, as a preparatory ignition rite for the group. Frank Hosick has outlined “knightly armor” to be worn by the pages. Half will be dressed as Little Lord Fauntleroy and the others as “Little Lulu,” a Saturday Evening Post cartoon feature. All goats, as they are calling the pledges, must have sweets, candies, and gum available for active Knights upon demand. Pledges not adhering to these rules are eligible for punishment. Nominations and election of four Knight officers will occur April 15. Positions include duke, counselor of the exchequer, historian, and scribe.

"To the Ancient and Honorable (?) Order of Sophomores": A letter from the freshman class addressed to the sophomore class. The letter states that freshman class is far superior and does hereby formally challenge the second yearlings to a duel (toothpick tussle) on the hill beneath the block ‘U’ on the mountain, in the night hours of May 2, in conjunction with ‘U’ day festivities.

"Sophomores Hope to Edit next Weak's Chronicle": An announcement that next "weak's" publication of the Chronicle will be handled entirely by sophomore staff members. A pardon is asked by Hays Gorey and David Barlow to overlook any errors and expect late delivery. Some suggestions for use of the edition include covering a hole in one's shoe or even tossing the paper straight into the nearest garbage. A meeting for all sophomores interested in having their names in the paper will be held Friday, April 12, at noon in the Chronicle office.

"Sixteenth Annual Military Prom Slated for Friday": Secrecy surrounding the decoration of the 16th annual military prom will soon be unveiled. Cadet Colonel Tanner has directed officers and sponsors regarding the decorations. The party is slated to begin at 9 p.m. with an intermission performance of drill exhibition by a select group of juniors, commanded by Captain Irwin Duffin. The receiving line will include Governor and Mrs. Henry H. Blood, Mayor and Mrs. Ab Jenkins, Colonel D.B. Crafton of San Francisco, Lieutenant Colonel John C. Wyeth, Cadet Colonel Richard S. Tanner, and regimental sponsor Phyllis Davis. Specially honored guests of the evening will include those in the receiving line, President and Mrs. George Thomas and R.O.T.C. officers and sponsors from the U.S.A.C. Tickets are being sold rapidly. Of the 600 printed, less than 100 remained late Wednesday. Verdi Breinholt and Johnny Stevens will supply music until one o'clock.

"European Peace, Forum Topic": "What is a Just Peace for Europe" was the topic of the Salt Lake Tribune-Telegram Utah forum on KDYL, April 9. The half hour program allowed history and political science students to question a panel of W. Harold Dalgliesh, Charles P. Schleicher, Robert Moyers, and more under the direction of Dr. Laverne C. Bane, university debate coach.

Articles:

"Election Policies": Stump speeches and glaring posters prompted the author to remind students to choose the best man for the position based on what he plans to accomplish, not just him being an old friend or affiliated with a certain organization. A person that would be a wishy-washy figure-head is not a suitable candidate.

"Thanks!"

"Froshantics," by Paul Romney: A children's poem telling of an eye-witness account of the coming freshman vs sophomore battle of May 2. The piece ends with "any resemblance to any persons ... is not purely coincidental."

"Boners ... From the Blue Books"

"Letters from a Freshman to Her Son," by Wilma Dune: Editor's note that the column is to be differentiated from Willie Dun's weekly dissertations. A mother's advice to her son on the topics of weekends, the evil weed, drinking, and girls.

"Bon Bon Bonnie": Orrin Tucker brought Bonnie Baker across the Mississippi after enjoying the way she sang and convincing her to join his band. She does not hold the microphone while she sings, leaving her hands free. This article leads into possibly another which may be called "Definition." The separation of the two is not clear. The subject of this latter half is that college students are just like any other person and do all kinds of things with their time.

"Televisioning"

"How it Started"

"Pen Deadline Announced": Thursday, April 11 at 3 p.m. is the deadline for submissions to the Pen, campus literary magazine. Freshmen, particularly, are encouraged to submit English themes. This edition will focus on realistic views of everyday life and be something different, with new voices speaking in astonishingly new and vital phrases. An article of note will be "Steinbeck as a Social Thinker" by George Fred Thereoux.

"Scribe Resorts to Metallic Humor": After being asked to donate to the school, an alumnus responds in good humor with much wordplay related to metal-themed phrases. The university responded in kind.

"Utes, Cougars Meet in Tennis Opener," by Lee S. Hammel: Utah tennis team faces the B.Y.U. team on the 'U' courts April 12. The "redskin crew" may have a chance against the defending champions thanks to Gordon Giles and Frank Mehner. Jimmy Eakins and Omer Morris are likely to fill the other two singles spots for Utah. For the doubles, Harold Barker, Grover Rawlins, and Ernie Smith stand out from the rest of the team. Possible contenders from the Provo team are included.

"Ute Pistol Squad Seeks 17th Consecutive Win": Led by captain W. C. Waters, the Utah pistol squad hopes to maintain their winning streak and bring home the National Field Artillery cup for the second consecutive year. The team has beat schools such as Purdue, Texas Aggies, and Oklahoma with the freshman squad outscoring the varsity of the three schools. The April 13 matches will be against Michigan, Santa Clara, and Texas A. and M.

"Louis, Clark Exposition Set for Joone," by Chuck Lobb: An intentionally humorous piece about an impending fight between Wayne Clark and Joseph Louis, said to be the "Battle of the Century." Clark attributes his success to Gerber's Baby Food, a product of General Motors.

"Freshmen Win Awards in Basketball": A list of freshmen recommended for basketball awards is listed, along with alternates and special mentions from coach Pete Couch. While next year's team will be mostly junior and senior class members, the strength of the freshman class is sure to be a helpful addition.

"Baseball"

"Frosh Fighter Wins A.A.U. Championship": Retaining the crown he won last year, Gene Robertson won the title by defeating first Ken Gardner of B.Y.U. then Frank Beames of Deseret Gym. Robertson began his boxing career four years ago in Price, where he was also a star football player for Carbon high school. He is regarded as a backfield prospect for the Ute varsity team this season.

"Picnic Ends Spring Grid Drills": Football practice ends this week with an inter-squad game April 12 and picnic in City Creek canyon April 14. The game is meant to see how the drills have improved the players and find which positions each is best suited for. The women dates for the picnic will be in charge of bringing food. The training season was a success, unveiling several freshmen prospects.

"Freshmen Cinder Squad Shows Promise in Drills": Freshman track and field members are conducting daily workouts, improving rapidly, and look fit to strengthen the varsity team next season. Unfavorable weather has kept the team indoors at a time when outside practices are much needed. A list of some top performers is included.

"'U' Poloists to Meet Coast Teams": The Utah polo crew has matches against U.C.L.A and Arizona university slated for May 18 and 24, respectively, on the Ute campus. The only player continuing from last fall is Pat Fenton, though the B-squad offers suitable replacements.

"Frosh Tennis Aspirants Begin Practice": Seventeen freshmen tennis hopefuls begin practice and vie for coveted frosh numerals. This seventeen contains a group of former high school stars, one of whom – Jack Greenhalgh – defeated Gordon Giles in the biggest upset of the year. Coach Theron S. Parmelee plans to narrow the group of aspirants from seventeen to ten, and from there select the five numeral winners. Freshmen tournaments are to be held in late May.

"W.A.A.": Orchesis, honorary dance association, is deep in preparation for their eleventh annual dance drama presentation in which the girls have designed their outfits and will appear in at least five original dances. Maurine Pratt is president of the group, which will perform at Kingsbury Hall on April 19. Beverly Searle oversees and invites every girl to attend a roller-skating party at Woolley's roller rink. A date for the organization of a riding club, sponsored by the W.A.A (Women's Activities Association?), will be set soon.

"It's A Cold Winter..."

"Baseballers Start League Plans; Schedule Practice Encounters": Baseball not currently recognized as an official sport, but the efforts of Wendell Paxton and Wayne Clark has brought the matter to careful consideration by the school. Last year, the group of nine played games against a couple high school squads and one with an unofficial BYU club. At their first practice, April 12, a manager will be selected to cooperate with school officials in promoting the interests of the group. Any man interested in the sport should be present, as a list of signatures from those attending will be given to Dean John L. Ballif in request for $100 of funding. Wayne Clark has been awarded a try out with the New York Yankees.

"Intramurals": Less-important spring sports are nearing the final round of many activities. Summaries of the standings of ping-pong, bowling, pocket billiards, and wrestling tournaments in heavy weight, welterweight, and light weight divisions are given.

"Pro Golfer to 'Fly' Tournament Circuit"

"Young Captures Third Place in Fencing Meet"

"Greenling Gab," by J. Bryce Tangren: While the conference ruling forbidding interschool athletic relations for freshmen has limited frosh athletes to intra-squad competition, the class of '43 has turned out an exceptional group of potential varsity material. A list of freshmen up for promotion to the varsity team is listed, regarding the loss of 14 football lettermen to graduation. Two basketball players are graduating and, similarly, the coach is looking to freshmen to fill the vacancies. A list of outstanding track and field freshmen is included. Freshmen are also active in minor sports.

"Candidate Cramming": This column critiques the two-party political system and its attempt to actualize in the university elections. The author believes that a two-party system in student government will lead to the university becoming instead a house of factions.

"Quarters or Semesters": The author of this column recommends a switch to the two semester setup of classes rather than the current tri-quarter setup due to the problems which arise during registration three times a year and the fact that many major institutions across the nation have already made the switch. The argument that the quarter system benefits students who work on farms becomes outdated when looking at the numbers of city-dwelling students to farmers.

"Free Ink for Lazy Learners"

"A.S.U.U. Primary Election Ballot": All 82 candidates for ASUU positions are listed under respective positions on this in-paper ballot.

"Tardy Students Should Know What to Expect from Profs Scribe Says": This column compares the pattern of the University of Chicago allowing students to register for a course and take the test without any detriments for missing class with the system of making each tardy a partial absence – for example, four tardies will equal one absence – to the unpredictable methods for dealing with tardiness at the U. Response to a late arrival is dependent on the instructor and unpredictable for the student.

"Monkey Business": An anonymously written poem relating the campus election to that of a group of monkeys.

"Utah Tracksters Enter Last Week of Drills before Utah State Meet," by Merrill Linford: Track team to begin last week of training before an April 27 opening meet against the Utah Aggies in the Ute bowl. Only a few veterans remain to bolster the team, Clarence Gehrke and Pete Bogden among them. This promises opportunities for sophomores to experience collegiate competition. The annual sorority relays will be held April 18; a list of participating sororities and the men running for them is given.

"'U' Diamond Aspirants Elect Manager": Student efforts to create an official university baseball team have taken steps towards a concrete resolution with the election of Wendell Paxton as squad manager and Wayne Clark his assistant. This announcement was made at an April 16 meeting where a petition of student body agreement was signed. This document will be presented to the athletic council in hopes of receiving funds for the team.

"Grid Squad Concludes Spring Drills": The 'U' football team wrapped up their shortest spring training session April 12. Players for the positions of end, quarterback, center, and pivot are needed. Promising players as well as a guess at next year's team lineup are listed.

"Injun Pistol Team Loses First Match of Season": Utah's varsity pistol team lost to Texas A and M by a close score of 1402 to 1396, losing their undefeated ranking. The freshmen, however, did win their match against the same school. On April 19, the squad will participate in the National R.O.T.C. championship under the direction of the National Rifle Association.

"Intramurals": Intramural activities are in high gear with a competition for the intramural trophy on the line. Various spring sports and fraternity standings are outlined.

"Sophomore Slants," by Ray Varley: A baseball team at the U is gradually making its way into the sports spotlight, led by Wayne Clark. Several football players were tested for blood likeness in order to help Coach Armstrong's wife recover after a serious operation. Izzy Spector and Winston Smith were donors to her condition. Sophomores have proven their worth in nearly every athletic activity. Harry Mangus, University of Wyoming freshman won the A.U.U. cross country run after hitch hiking from Laramie to Salt Lake City to participate in the race. He vowed last year after coming in second to return by any means and triumph.

"Utah Polo Artists Arrange Games with Coast Squads": Utah polo team will match up against Boise May 11, U.S.C. May 18 and 20, and Stanford May 23 and 25. In the fall, University of Arizona will send their polo and football teams to Salt Lake for a full day of interstate athletics. Pat Fenton is the captain of this year's team. Other squad members are listed.

"Sophomores Sparkle In 'U' Net Meet": Favored to win entering the day of play, the Utah tennis team defeated that of B.Y.U. though each match was closely fought. An outline of featured matches is provided. The next match will be against the Aggies in Logan April 26. Another championship is expected with this team by the end of the season.

"Vote Baiting": In the past, outlandish measures of promoting a candidate was allowed during the lead up to student elections. However, the costly campaigning was matched with lower turnout at the polls. Since the drafting of election advertising rules, more representative advertising has followed and votership has also risen again.

"Letters to the Editor," By Adrian Cannon: The column seeks to clarify rumors concerning the independent's political assassination. There was no attempt to hurt any candidate as an individual or independent cause as a whole. There is no animosity among the group. There are hopes that independents will take an interest in extracurricular activities and that fair representation for all groups on campus is established.

"Discrimination?" By Heber Hart: A colored university freshman wrote anonymously to the Chronicle sports editor in order to have the question posed publicly whether he was excluded from the sorority races based on the darker hue of his skin. Coach Armstrong insists that all runners were chosen by random drawing. The Chronicle wishes to join the ranks of college papers fighting racial discrimination and favors equal rights for all athletes.
